Keeping Faith

Hon. Ernest Lapointe repeated in a broadcast Monday what he said during the special session of parliament, that should Premier Duplessis' attempt to sabotage the nation's war effort be approved at the polls there would be no course for the Quebec members of the Dominion cabinet to quit their posts.

Quebec voters thus have the matter placed squarely before them. They are told that a verdict for the separatist policies of Duplessis would mean exclusion from the administration of Canada—including the direction and application of its war measures. Quebec and its people have been isolated and at the same time stand at Ottawa for participation. Its representatives in the cabinet refuse to hold office at the price of being charged with hypocrisy.

Not often in the public life of Canada have men been forced to make so cruel a choice. And never has the issue been more clearly defined. Mr. Lapointe and his colleagues are taking their stands as honest men, full-blooded Canadians, and one hundred per cent democrats. They are fighting the battle for Canadian unity, under penalty that if they fail their political lives will be forfeit.

Those "Proposals"

Prime Minister Chamberlain told the British House of Commons on Monday that no proposals for peace had been made by the Fuehrer to Britain or France. The fact should be kept clearly in mind, now that the air and the news despatches are filled with allusions to the "peace proposals" of Herr Hitler. There are no such proposals—or were none up to Monday of this week.

In his speech on Friday last Herr Hitler did throw out suggestions that the head of some neutral country try to arrange a conference, and stated the conditions upon which he would be prepared to participate. But the speech was addressed to the members of the Reichstag, not to presidents or premiers of other countries or to any of them.

It is not the practice for a head of a neutral state to "butt in" and try to arrange a settlement on his own initiative; that is only done when one of the belligerents invites him to do so. Herr Hitler had not, up to Monday, asked President Roosevelt or anybody else to undertake the task.

The talk about the Fuehrer's as yet non-existent "peace proposals" is part of his attempt to throw blame for the war upon Britain and France. All he said—and he said it only to the Reichstag—is that he is ready to quit fighting if it is allowed to keep the plunder of the states he has already wrecked.

For Future Reference

Dr. Jacob Viner, the eminent economist, has presented his report on Alberta's debt problem in relation to the taxpayers' ability to pay. He finds that the province could not pay the full contractual interest rates on its bonds, but might pay something more than the half-rate if an additional million dollars in revenue was collected—say by doubling the income tax in the lower brackets.

The report will doubtless prove of great value as providing an expert survey of the whole question. But to attempt to collect the suggested additional revenue by the means proposed or any other tax scheme or to interfere unnecessarily with the present set-up, would be unwise at present.

The Rowell commission has presented its report on federal-provincial relations, but the report has not been given out, and will not be made public or acted upon while Government and parliament are engaged in carrying out the war program. Until this report is known and studied, and the reaction in parliament is also known, there will be uncertainty as to what revenue-raising and other powers the province is likely to have in future. Pending this clarifying of the future situation, taxation should not be substantially increased or the province committed as to permanent debt policy.

Meanwhile hardship is not being imposed on the bondholders and there is thus no urgency in the matter. They are receiving 2½ per cent, a fair rate of interest, and as much as could be paid without increasing taxation—or borrowing—according to Dr. Viner. It will be as well therefore to file his report until that of the Rowell commission comes up for consideration and action.

Transplanting Minorities

For one line of Nazi policy—so far as it goes—there will be wide approval among those who have given study to the problem presented by the mixed populations in Europe, and to the ever present possibility of an explosion thus created.

German minorities living in many other countries are being called back to the Reich and removed thither in mass. German citizens in these countries are simply ordered to pack their belongings, secure their business affairs, and climb on the ships or trains provided for them. Those who have assumed foreign citizenship are invited to return, and some provision is no doubt being made for their transportation and re-settlement.

But this unscrupling process is only a one-way movement. There is no suggestion that national homes be provided for the Czechs and Poles and Austrians, and that people of these races be assisted or allowed to quit Germany and settle in such areas. The repatriation is to be applied only to German living abroad, not to foreigners living in the Reich against their will. These are to be kept in subjection, and the repatriated Germans will be expected to help keep them in subjection.

To people living in Canada and the United States it seems strange that in Europe people of the same race can live peacefully only when they live separately. That they would get along well in segregated areas is largely assumption, but that appears to be the only hope for conditions in that continent coming to approximate the conditions which are normal here.

Permanent peace in Europe seems to require a general reshuffling either of boundary lines or of populations, to the end that no large minorities may remain under alien rule. Re-drawing boundary lines twenty years ago did not succeed. Perhaps the eventual solution will be a general sorting out of the peoples of Europe along their own racial lines. But that is not what the Nazis are undertaking in the areas under their control.

Editorial Notes

A Dublin despatch says Eire is taking precautions to preserve neutrality, avoid effects of the war, and maintain internal peace. It is favored by its location. Czechoslovakia and Poland also wanted to live and let live.

A Texas oil expert, predicting a shortage of fuel oil for Germany's motorized war equipment, says "It is far more advantageous to Germany to have Italy as a neutral than an active ally." And far more advantageous to Italy, which counts for much more with Signor Mussolini.

The Passing Show

By J. S. COWPER

While other democracies are engaged in a war against Nazi Germany, the democracy to the south of us is holding court-martial on a draft-evader from the last World War. Grover C. Bergall, in 1917, took to the highways and became a deserter, but now a fleshly middle-aged man wishing a secure place in life, which he makes a home for himself and family, is being tried as a deserter.

A TIP FOR MOVIE STARS—Before the war started in Europe, Bergall made the voyage from Germany to New York and gave himself up. He is still a rich man, from a family fortune made in beer.

The odd thing in Bergall's testimony is that he swears he lived in the family home at Philadelphia for seven years, while the U.S. authorities thought he was in Germany. A master desecrator, Louise Lewis, for whose body, dead or alive, the State of New York offered a huge reward, is found living quietly in the Bronx while detectives search for him in Shanghai and Monte Carlo.

These two much-sought-for notables might raise enough to pay their anticipated fines, if they would decline the secret of their anonymity to leading actors and actresses of Hollywood. These don blue spectacles when they go downtown shopping, or on an announced trip to the Curzon, and marvel that the public finds them out and mows them.

Miss Laura Ingalls, well-known flier, has got into trouble with the U.S. Civil Aeronautics Authority, for doing what British airmen have been doing over Germany—dropping propaganda leaflets. In her case she dropped them from the White House at Washington, scoring some of the Senators out of their sleep.

LAURA AS A PAMPHLETEER—She says she was asked to show cause why her flier's license should not be revoked. The pamphlets she dropped were the secret of her anonymity to American women do not intend to again have their men sent to die on foreign soil. For that, no doubt, she will in due course be charged with sedition before the House of Education, and given ten days in which to show cause why her high school certificate should not be revoked for splitting an infinitesimal.

These American ladies seem to think all wives of soldiers suffered in the war. There were some significant exceptions. I recall ailing in the hospital of a divorcee who had a brother newspaperman who served overseas in one of the killing battalions. He had three wives, all of them ailing in the hospital.

A WAKENESS FOR SLEEP—The photograph of the respondent as a party to a form of marriage with them in London. How many "husbands" had contributed wife's allowance in her, none knew. They could talk up to him.

In the witness-room after the hearing, the four swapped reminiscences. All of them agreed that their joint "weds" had been a good deal of trouble, but they agreed that they were on leave, been assiduous in seeing that they attended church, looked after their children, and had a jolly good time. Each spoke of her with respect.

It wasn't only the London girls who prospered in the marriage racket. A Saskatchewan married seven. She was careful to see she took only one husband from each battalion. Romantic husbands in France sometimes, when she was on leave, been assiduous in seeing that they attended church, looked after their children, and had a jolly good time. Each spoke of her with respect.

Is Coffee a War Material?

Man is never more ingenious than when at war. A nation at war is basically just a large number of people fighting for their lives. Under those circumstances they become most ingenious.

It may be fairly assumed that whatever restrictions United States ingenuity may contrive to prevent war material reaching the belligerents, equal ingenuity will be employed to frustrate plans for the neutral. The plan can be made.

For instance, The New York Coffee and Sugar Exchange was startled the other day when a bid came from the Russian government in Moscow for a huge but undelivered amount of coffee. Transportation was to be in Russian ships, to Leningrad. All perfectly legal.

The odd part of this is that Russia has never been a large coffee buyer in New York or even in South America. Russia is in general a teetotal drinking country. Why this sudden rush for coffee? The simplest explanation is that the coffee is going to Leningrad, and from there straight to Germany, a great coffee-drinking country which has been retreating under a shortage of it from before war was declared—Colony, Alberta.

Good Farming for Us Now

Conferences between the Dominion department of agriculture and the provincial authorities, present and forthcoming, are to be directed to the long view, says Mr. Gardiner, the responsible minister. This is a reassuring statement to the farmer, for the war has affected the industry, perhaps a little more than any other, which is vital both to the maintenance of the war effort in Canada and to the economic life of Canada's contribution to the war.

"Plans," says Mr. Gardiner, "are being considered for the duration of the war, for the current year's crops, the disposition of which is pretty well provided for. Plans made for Canadian agriculture during the war should not leave the industry disrupted when the war ends."

So, it is explained, the Canadian farmer will be advised, and will be prepared to produce the ordinary crops of the ordinary Canadian routine of sowing and reaping. He will not be encouraged to put all his eggs in one basket, and to devote his entire effort to the most profitable farming operation, for the farmer himself, for the country, for our side in the war. And the minister adds that the war will be less likely than any other to land us in a disastrous agricultural depression when the war is done—Vanousser Press.

On This Date

By FRED WILLIAMS

Today marks two important days in Canadian and empire history. It was on Oct. 11, 1869, that the halfbreeds of the Red River made it clear that they would resist to force rather than permit surveyors "from Canada" to divide up their lands. The territorial rights of the Hudson's Bay Company having been transferred to the Canadian government, a surveying party, under Colonel Denison, was sent to the Red River. The French halfbreeds, alarmed at this action, which they thought menaced their rights to the land, turned back the surveyors. Later they prevented Hon. William McDougall from proceeding to Fort Garry as special commissioner to arrange the transfer from the H.B.C. to the Dominion, and formed themselves into a provisional government of which Louis Riel was president.

A "Bill of Rights" was drawn up, Fort Garry was seized, many loyalists were taken prisoner, one, Thomas Scott, was murdered, and Riel held away until the following August when a military expedition from Ontario and Quebec arrived under Colonel Garnet Wolseley. The whole affair had been averted had the Ottawa government listened to men, clerical and lay, who knew the halfbreeds and could have mediated between them and the surveyors.

The second notable event on this date was 49 years ago, October 11, 1890, when the South African war began. Canada was at the time much divided as to what her course should be. The Dominion action demanded that she send troops; another that it was none of our business. At first Sir Wilfrid Laurier was disinclined to agree to the latter course, but he yielded to public pressure, although in so doing creating much dissatisfaction in Quebec, and within 20 days the Royal Canadian Regiment, all volunteers, sailed from Quebec, and brought honor to the land of the Maple Leaf. It was followed by other contingents, including the famous Saskatchewan Horse.

Your Health — By Dr. Frank McCoy

Poor circulation may be the cause of many symptoms, such as cold hands and feet, or numbness or tingling of these members.

The ordinary type of defective circulation is due, principally, to lack of exercise, being found very frequently among office workers and others engaged in sedentary work.

The patient may notice the symptoms already described, and may seek some relief in the form of massage, or other means. After such correction is attained and the blood is once more found circulating through the body, a normal, healthy feeling, he will find that he is able to handle his work with the previous calmness of the extremities. He is reaping other benefits in the form of increased well-being, and in the way of being able to think better.

When the blood and lymph circulation all over the body is sluggish, mental activity is necessarily impaired to some extent. On the other hand, the patient who is strengthened and made more alert when there is a good circulation of blood and lymph.

In the ordinary type of defective circulation produced by lack of activity, the chief thing for the patient to keep in mind is to take more exercise, and to get the relief of poor circulation is influenced more by the proper kind of exercise than by any other factor.

During exercise there is an immediate improvement in the circulation, the blood being pumped faster to the muscles, which in turn increases the flow of lymph. When the patient is in a state of rest, the improvement becomes permanent and the blood continues to circulate normally at all times.

At the start, it is advisable to use only light exercise, especially when unaccustomed to activity. An ambitious spell of violent exercising usually does more harm than good. To get the best results in increasing the circulation by exercise, it is necessary to begin cautiously and to increase your calisthenics only gradually. Exercise is a wonderful remedy and the only one worth considering in the development of a brisk circulation, and it must be rightly used.

At the start, taking only a few light calisthenics, combined with a short walk. Every few days, add more exercise. In this way you will reap all of the good effects, without any muscle soreness.

Supplement your exercises by walking. Walk a mile the first day and each day thereafter, walk for 1 minute more. In this way at the end of 45 days you will be able to walk a considerable distance, without having become overtired at any time. Walking is a simple exercise, but one which will do wonders in banishing poor circulation.

It is my advice for correcting defective circulation due to a sedentary life—EXERCISE. Through exercise you will cause the blood to circulate better, you will feel better, digest your food better, sleep better, and think better.

The purpose of the conference, he said, "is to get justice in Georgia. If your government refuses to grant satisfaction, I can see an honest, forthright life. I just want a change of scene."

Looking Them Over

By Jack Kelly

These Yankees
Esks Travel
The Roundup

Now that all the shouting is over, you can take a calm and philosophical look at these amazing New York Yankees and try to figure out how they got that way. On my books all the other major league clubs are just minor compared to the Yankees and if you don't agree you'll have a mighty tough job finding any grounds for your stand.

The other day I gathered that there were actually citizens around who were in the business of the Yankees winning the first game of the series. It must be very bad for it had discovered these citizens either I would not have put the bee on Deakin to buy the coffee. I have also been told that there was one fellow who had five dollars that the Reds would win the series. I of course refuse to believe such fantastic rumors.

One of the many things that give me the prevalent opinion that the Yankees have won four world series in a row simply because they can knock balls out of the park as fast as the factory can make them. Personally I am always partial toward ball players who can knock the ball out of the park, but the Yankees can do lots of things besides knock the dozens of new balls that Ed Harrow orders up for them daily.

Now take for instance the pitching business. Nobody ever seems to give a thought to the building department when they talk of the Yankees, but consider what they did to Cincinnati. Red Ruffing, with a very sore arm, limped the Reds. Minto Thome, musing a sore shoulder, limped the Reds. Second baseman Lou Gehrig, limping the Reds. Third baseman Hank Greenwald, limping the Reds. Fourth baseman Phil Marlowe, limping the Reds. And so it goes. In fact, I am convinced that just five earned runs in three games.

Next let us consider the Yankees' fielding ability. On the act in which the National League takes such pride. In the four games the Yankees kicked four fielding chances and the Reds batted four. The Yankees gang pulled off five double plays and the Redslanders pulled one.

Now let us consider the Yankees' batting. Nobody ever seems to give a thought to the batting department when they talk of the Yankees, but consider what they did to Cincinnati. ## LEPINE MADE ASSISTANT TO COACH DUGAL

MONTREAL, Oct. 11.—Montreal Canadiens dug into their executive and player ranks for a host of strategy to handle the colorful National Hockey League club this season.

President Erik Savard announced Jules Dugal, a behind-the-scenes man with the club since 1921, had been appointed manager and coach and that Albert (Dit) Lepine, for 12 years Canadiens' first-string center, would be assistant coach.

The task of manager is not new to Dugal but the coming season will be his first full year at the helm. His appointment leaves Canadiens in the hands of the man who took over in January last winter and brought them out of the cellar into the Stanley cup play-offs.

In his position as coach, a vacancy caused by the departure of Albert (Babe) Siebert, veteran defenseman, Dugal will share his duties with Lepine, who handled Canadiens' International-American League team of New Haven last year.

Until Dugal was named as coach and not a player. He was named as manager last January, Dugal was already a club executive, although he had handled the team once over on road trips. When he went in as a pinch hitter Canadiens were deep in the cellar but his career quiet handling brought them out of their slump and gained them a playoff deal.

Smythe Quits Deal When Apos Named

TORONTO, Oct. 11.—Manager Conn Smythe of Toronto's National Hockey League club said last night he had quit trying to get Montreal's Earl (Babe) Siebert from Chicago Black Hawks when the Hawks offered to trade him for Syl Apps, brilliant Maple Leaf center.

Smythe, who had been with the Hawks since 1934, was picked up by Montreal where he picked up 23 winners to six each for Maple and London, landed him into third place in the national standing. After last season's ratings, Smythe, who got a first start in Florida, was in front with 214 winners, Lingard second with 184, while Jimmy had 174.

Noel MacDonald, Mabel Munton Married

All On Wedding News

WE WANT a big spread. It's a penalty they've got to pay, a determined girlish voice announced. "Spread it all over the page!" chimed in another. "It's a scoop, so play it up!" came a third voice.

The deep, philosophic calm of The Bulletin Sport office was shattered last night as five members of the Grads burst in as lively as a bunch of fire-crackers. Behind them came Percy Page, a face wreathed in smiles.

The girls had just paid loose! Mabel received affectionate congratulations and fond wishes.

FINALLY TELL ALL

At this point they giggled in their secret, and told all. Indeed all were surprised and all happy as Mabel told of her marriage to Jack McElroy of Edmonton on September 23 at Christ Church.

Noel was married on August 23 to Harry Robertson, the latter a star junior hockey player here three years ago and who recently made his home in Kimberley. Noel and Harry were married at Bonita Ferry, Idaho. Noel was spending her holidays at Kimberley.

Three more famous young hockey players, girls, visited the first face and were given a warm welcome. The girls had just paid loose!

By HENRY McLEMORE

UNITED PRESS Special to The Edmonton Bulletin.

CINCINNATI, O., Oct. 11.—Perfection is very expensive. The New York Yankees have proved that. Their victory over the Cincinnati Reds yesterday, which gave them the world's series and the championship of the world in four straight games, cost the owners of the team a pretty penny.
